

And the mistake is?

key

other information

To provide a more pupil based focus you could have the pupils demonstrating the learning. Pupils could work in groups watching the demonstration. Demonstrations could be prepared in advance by pupils as a homework activity.

instructions

The aim of this activity is for pupils to either watch a demonstration/activity or look at piece of work and identify the deliberate errors. This will test their knowledge of the topic or skills being taught. This activity can be carried out in pairs as follows:

- Ensure the pupils have a pen & paper to record their findings.
- Show/issue the demonstration/work.
- Pupils to discuss and record their findings in pairs.
- Ask groups to feedback their findings to the class.

You can extend the deliberation by asking groups to carry out comparisons of their answers.
